Hell's Kitchen

29 September, 1996 CE

Culinary Critic

-Damn

Each week, our resident critic takes a look at the previous issue and lets you know just what you didn't miss...

MP pissed me off last week. Nothing says "this publication sucks" like a loser typeface that looks like it was generated with a Magna-Doodle. Few enough people read MP when the print is legible (three? four, maybe?). Let's imagine for a moment that MP had some quality of writing. If so, that quality would be dragged down by the shitty print. We don't, however, have to worry about that hypothetical situation. MP was so bad this past week that I'm not even going to mention anything about Troy Liston, our regional ambassador to the 1996 NY State Kiddie Porn Convention. Today's Cul Crit is all about MP.

All right, "Suicide Pact" wasn't bad, but because some guy bitched me out over it, I'm not too happy with it. As for the rest...

"Thug Life . . . Thug Death": dumb title, dumb article. I'm about as cracker as you can get, so I smiled myself a big smile when I found out that this guy, who went around wearing 40,000 dollars worth of jewelry, had had his ass capped. Tupac: dumb name. Straightballer: you guessed it, dumb name. According to the history given, Tupac was a real savior--shot police officers, was convicted of sexual assault--yup, a true martyr for the cause. Rap, money, and Thug Life: what great causes to die for. I think its just wonderful that there are forums like MP out there that can give voice to such admirable ideals.

"Fast Eddie" wasn't funny, wasn't interesting; the point of this waste of space was...? For my review of the cartoon (oh, clap, clap), reread the previous sentence, replacing "Fast Eddie" with "the cartoon." "A Bad Day" was a bad story. And it was written by a real winner, SCORPIO.

Oooo. Where do these freaks get their pen names? Do they look in the mirror and say, "Yo, Straightballer. Yeah, that's cool!" The people at GDT call me Damn, but that wasn't my idea.

"Urban Legend" was shorter than the previous one had been, and just as lame. Concentrated lameness™, a new special, courtesy of the minds behind MP. The essay "Loneliness" was, and I quote, "a foolish and wretched endeavor." And as for my favorite part, the poem, it also supplied its own evaluation; the last word, a summary if you will, was "weak." Nice of these people to save me any unnecessary word-searching.

Ye olde overall impression is that MP sucked. Maybe I'll have something good to say next week, do you think? Or not.

Let Alex and Bucephalus rock your world

See page 3 of Gracies Dinnertime Theatre for details.

Cover me with honey and throw me to the thespians!

Meetings every Tuesday at 9pm in Clark A of the Student Alumni Union.

All are welcome.

For more information, e-mail players@rit.edu

Subscriptions now offered

Hell's Kitchen now offers subscriptions to its series of fine publications. If you're going to be moving away from the area, or if you just can't seem to pick up a copy on time, this is your chance to get guaranteed delivery to your door for every issue we produce. For the entire Hell's Kitchen package the subscription cost is only nine dollars for non-fan club members, and eight dollars for fan club members. This price will be subject to change only when the publications' lengths increase.

Even if you're interested in receiving back issues, we can accomodate you. If you don't wish to receive one issue every week for a quarter and would just prefer to receive one issue, the cost is one dollar per issue.

If you're interested just contact us through:

diablo@csh.rit.edu

Or you can write to our staff at:

Hell's Kitchen
472 French Rd.
Rochester, NY 14618

Send a subscription to someone you love, or someone you don't.

Does your business, organization, or club want to advertise in Hell's Kitchen?

Special Rates for clubs and organizations on the U of R and RIT!!!

For a rate sheet, contact Ben Leopold via bjl4009@rit.edu or care of the Hell's Kitchen business number: (716) 271-6823