Promote Barrett To Photo Editor

BATH — Norman Barrett of Bath, a Sophomore at the Rochester Institute of Technology, has been named photo editor of the RIT Reporter.

During his Freshman year he was assistant photo editor and the announcement of his promotion was made Wednesday. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Erman H. Barrett of Bath.

He is a graduate of Haverling Central School and during his Senior year was photography editor of the Haverlingist. He also worked as school sports reporter for the Steuben Daily Advocate, during his Junior and Senior years at the Bath school.

Norman Barrett died suddenly and unexpectedly in his sleep Wednesday, January 26, 2000 at the age of 59.

There was no warning; no long-time illness. As of March 1st, a cause of death is still yet to be determined. He not only seemed to be in perfect health but appeared to have the sturdiest constitution of the entire family. He exercised regularly, didn't smoke, and rarely drank.

It's a complete shock to everyone he left behind.

He was a loving husband, kind father, involved grandfather. He was a photographer, Navy veteran, RIT graduate, Free Mason, Patron of the Order of Eastern Star, president of the local chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association for a while in the seventies, church council member, traveling salesman, and marketing consultant.

Youths Start Bicycle Trip To Virginia

Up at 5:15 yesterday morning, two Bath youths started out on a 1200-mile trip by bicycle to Alexandria, Va. They are Norman Barrett, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Erman H. Barrett of 7 Elm St., and Robert Adams, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Adams of 16 West Washington Blvd.

With a change of clothes, bed rolls, cameras and spare parts for their bikes, the youths started their trip by heading for Addison by way of Goodhue Lake. Following back roads, they will avoid the heavy automobile traffic on the main highways.

Their itinerary will take them from Addison to Wellsboro, Williamsport and Carlisle, Pa. They will pass within 25 miles of Gettysburg, but said they don't intend to stop and call on President Eisenhower.

They will spend some time in Washington, D. C., and will visit Mrs. Adams' sister, Mrs. Fred Colhard, at Arlington, Va., at Bethesda, Md., they plan to visit Mrs. Paul Richards, formerly of Bath and a friend of the Barretts.

Both boys are Juniors at Hawerling Central School. They expect to reach Washington by late afternoon Wednesday and plan to be back in Bath by July 27, completing their 1200-mile trip.

ADVENTURE AHEAD—Norman Barrett, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Erman H. Barrett of 7 Elm St., Bath, (center), and Robert Adams, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Adams of 16 West Washington Blvd., Bath, check their map with Norman's dad, preparatory to leaving Bath on a bicycle trip to Washington, D. C., and Williamsburg, Va. They left Bath early yesterday for Addison by way of Goodhue Lake, intending to follow back roads to avoid heavy auto traffic on their 1200 mile trip.

Part IX:
A Pre-birth
Flashback

AFTER A LONG TRIP - Two Bath youths who started out a week ago on a bicycle trip to Washington D.C. and Arlington, Va., are shown in front of the White House Saturday. They are Norman Barrett, 16, left, son of Mr. and Mrs. Erman H. Barrett of 7 Elm St. and Robert Adams, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Adams of 16 West Washington Blvd. Only one minor accident marred their trip when a fender on Barrett's bicycle became loose just four miles this side of Washington.

As you can see, Washington D.C. is a place of change not just for me, but my entire family. I can feel the power of it affect my genes and connect me to something other-worldly.

My parents met on the Capital building steps. My mother, Sara, who worked as a file clerk for the FBI, was with her roommate and co-worker, Norma, and they were talking to a scrawny sailor who was on medical leave after a rough time at the Bay of Pigs. My dad, Norman, was cruisin' for women with his friend, Gus, and, to use the exact words of my mom, 'started horn-ing in.'

My father and Gus worked in the photo department of the Navy and had Washington Post Press Passes and expensive cameras and enough attitude to get backstage to any function in town. His shift in the Navy usually consisted of party-ing alongside congressmen and senators and tak-ing their pictures -- after of course making sure that they were with their wives and not their sec-retaries.

While my mother was trying to ignore them by paying even more attention to the scrawny sailor, the guys told Norma that they had been taking pictures of them all day for a magazine spread on government employees on their day off, and in order for the pictures to be used, they needed to get their new found models' address and phone number.

Norman and Sara have been together now for over 37 years.

Here's a picture of Sara, Norman and Gus at the Washington Memorial Art Gallery not more than thirty minutes after they met.

My father was trained to always 'get the shot' no matter what. That's how he got this picture of JFK and the first lady. There was a velvet rope keeping the photographers back at awkward angles.

He knew what he had to do. When the target hit the mark he jumped out of the crowd and took his shot as five Secret Service agents piled on top of him

He was immediately yelled at, but after the photo was processed, it was made mural size, signed by Kennedy, and is hanging at the Navy Photographic Academy.

The Sage has no causes of his own,
But takes the interests of the people as his own.
He is kind to the kind;
He is also kind to the unkind:
For Virtue is kind.
He is faithful to the faithful;
He is also faithful to the unfaithful:
For Virtue is faithful.

In the midst of the world,
The Sage is shy and self-effacing.
For the sake of the world
He keeps his heart in its nebulous state.
All the people strain their eyes and ears:
The Sage only smiles
Like an amused infant.
